

GREENIVORE

by Michelle McGee

THE STEIN AGENCY

(818) 594-8990

1. EXT. COSTAL PLAIN - DAY

A broad river valley with open and dense forests.

2. EXT. PARK - CONTINUOUS

DAX (a green, juvenile T-Rex,) and his baby sister DAISY (big eyes, soft features) exit the park on cloud nine.

DAISY

Dax, I can't believe you hit a home run!
Sorry, you lost your ball. I still say I should've jumped in after it.

Dax plays it cool, but his face beams with pride.

DAX

Thanks Daisy, but remember what I told you.

DAISY / DAX

Tar pits and ball pits aren't the same.

Suddenly, there's loud <RUMBLING>. Daisy's eyes widen.

DAISY

EARTH QUAKE!

Daisy leaps into a nearby bush.

ANGLE ON DAX'S STOMACH as it quakes and rolls.

DAX

Daisy, you can come out. It's just my stomach rumbling. I'm hungry.

Relieved, Daisy joins her brother.

DAISY

Phew! For a second I thought it was a catastrophe, that would lead to the inevitable extinction of all dinosaurs.

They look at each other for a tense moment, then laugh.

DAX

As if that could ever happen. Come on, let's get home. I need some meat.

3. EXT. FOREST - MOMENTS LATER

Daisy and Dax walk through the lush forest filled with PREHISTORIC-SIZED BERRIES, CUCUMBERS, and CORN.

DAISY

Dax, you don't have to wait to eat.
There's plenty of fruit and veggies here.

DAX

Fruit and veggies? Yuck! I'm a carnivore.
I only eat meat.

Just then, there is a <DEEP SONIC RUMBLE>. This time Daisy waves it off.

DAISY

Your stomach again?

DAX

No! EAAAAAARTHQUAAAAAKE!!!

Daisy leaps under a brush just as a JURASSIC-SIZED PIECE OF BROCCOLI breaks from an overhead plant and lands on top of DAX. Dax's head and arms stick out from under the floret. The earthquake stops and Daisy runs to help.

DAISY

Dax! Are you okay?

DAX tries to lift himself up but relents to the weight.

DAX

I'm fine. But now I know why they call broccoli a superfood.

Daisy grabs Dax's hands and pulls, but the tension builds and causes a rubber band effect that traps her with Dax.

DAISY

Oh no! Now we are both trapped!

DAX

We'll be okay. We just have to figure out a way out of here.

Dax's tummy <RUMBLES> and his face lights up.

DAX (CONT'D)

I know how we can get free.

DAX takes a HUGE BITE of the broccoli and then another.

DAX (CONT'D)

Mmm... not bad.

Daisy joins in and munches away at the broccoli. Soon the vegetable is all gone, and they are free.

DAISY

We did it!

DAX

Yeah! And you know what? I like broccoli.
It's like me. Green, tough and kinda' bitter.

Off their laughter, we FADE TO BLACK.